The red thread

- After a preliminary non-binding session or call we decide whether we can imagine to cooperate together or not
- A respectful attitude toward my customers is another basis of my work
- At the beginning of the coaching session, we clarify what you are expecting to reach and this makes the basis of our contract
- Procedure and operation method will be discussed
- The role of the coach, his discretion and mutual expectations are part of our agreement as well
- A focus of my work is the systemic view, supplemented by many other interventions. On this way we jointly solve the node and head the solution
- It is for us equally important to work goal-oriented, efficiently, clearly

Every conflict, every issue offers an opportunity for development.

- You succeed awareness for solutions in your daily life, you formulate clearly your objectives and personal goals and you achieve targeted changes
- You will open new perspectives and scope
- You gain orientation and certitude for your dealing
- You achieve greater security and decision and you will stay in a successful position
